After the opening of the court this morning some little time was spent behind under instruction at the yard. The feeling

Sailmaker Franklin's Story.

The first witness called to testify was Sailmaker Franklin, who is on duty in connec tion with the class as officer of the day. He 13 the colored man Johnson came to his room and showed him a wound which had land, rain today, followed by fair weather Wednesday; much colder with a cold wave; Wednesday; much colder with a cold wave; just been inflicted on his head. In answer to a query from Franklin, Johnson stated that he had no idea who his assailant was. The wound above Johnson's eye was a severe one, but the witness said it was impossible for him to surmise what sort of a weapon was used to inflict it, other than that it was evidently a blunt one of some sort. He at once sent Johnson to the doctor and then made a personal inspection of the men's quarters. All were in their cots, and there was no way of telling who had committed the assault there was no way of telling who had committed the assault.

Continuing, the witness said that on the morning of November 11, about 7:30 o'clock, Thompson came to him and reported that some one had emptied the contents of a cuspidore, sawdust, etc., into his bed and locker, but an investigation of this incident also failed to disclose the identity of the man who had committed the outrage.

The Liberty Book in Evidence. The witness then identified the "liberty book" of the night of October 12. Ensign Terhune, who is acting as recorder of the court, then placed this book in evidence as showing what members of the class were not in quarters that night, thus narrowing down considerably the number of men among whom the gullty parties would eventually be looked for. The same method of procedure was also followed out for the night of November 10.

Thompson's bed, continued Franklin, was the only one reported we having been used.

the only one reported as having been used. Thompson was down for liberty that night, but was reported in the liberty book as not going. The witness said that he did not personally know of any members of the class being compelled to eat at a separate table from the others or of any attempt being made to ostracise them. He had never heard it as a common rumor in the class that some of the members were being hazed. Since he first heard of the maltreatment of some of the class he has redoubled his vigilance in the hore of fiving but was reported in the liberty book as doubled his vigilance in the class he has re-doubled his vigilance in the hope of fixing upon some one as the offender, but so far his efforts have not met with any success his efforts have not met with any success at all.

In answer to a question by the court, the witness stated that Seaman Thompson accompanied Johnson when the latter reported that he had been struck, but he did not say that any one had molested him, nor did he have anything to say with reference to the assault upon Johnson.

It was possible, continued the witness, for men who are out on liberty to return before their time is up and to go to bed without their time is up and to go to bed without reporting their return until the next day. In other words, the records in the liberty book might not prove absolutely that any of the men on liberty were out of quarters at any particular time.

Mate Cleveland Knew Nothing.

placed on the stand. He said that he had only been performing his Juty since November 15, and while he had heard rumors of trouble in the class, this trouble had occurred before he was assigned to the duty. He was, therefore, excused from giving further testimony

At this point an adjournment was taken until 1 o'clock. When the court reassembled Boatswain Cooper, who was the third officer of the day at the seaman's quarters, was put upon the stand and told of the troubles among the men as he knew

Cases Advanced.

Cases have been advanced out of their places on the calendar of the Supreme Court for hearing on the first Monday in January as follows:

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company vs. the United States, involving the title to certain lands in the vicinity of Los An-geles, Cal., and known as the "Overlap

The United States vs. Samuel Zucker and William Josephy. This is a case aris-ing under section 9 of the customs adminstrative act of 1800, whereby importers istrative act of 1830, whereby importers who make false returns of the value of involces consigned to them are liable to the United States for the full value of the goods. Suit was brought against Zucker & Josephy by the United States to recover the value of certain invoices of artificial flowers imported by them.

A Decoy Letter Decision.

An opinion by Justice Brown was handed down in the Supreme Court yesterday in the case of George Goode, a letter carrier in Roxbury, Mass., convicted of embezzling in Roxbury, Mass., convicted of embezzling money from letters. In passing upon the points raised the court decided that a decoy letter addressed to a fictitious person is a letter within the meaning of the law, when it bears the semblance of a letter, and that it is not necessary in such cases that a carrier shall take the letter from a regular letter box in order to render him criminally lishly in opening it liable in opening it.

Army Orders.

The leave of absence of Second Lieut. Alfred C. Merillat, eighth cavalry, has been extended two months.

The following transfers in the second infantry are ordered: Second Lieut. Hiram McL. Powell, from company I to company F; Second Lieut. Peter E. Marquart, from company F to company I.

Currency Sixes Duc.

A circular has been issued by the Secretary of the Treasury giving notice that United States 6 per cent bonds, of the face value of $3,680,000, and commonly known as "currency sixes," become due on the first day of January, 1896, and that interest on said bonds will cease on that day.

Possible Effect of a Decision by the Su- | Names Drawn to Serve on the District preme Court.

If Favorable, It Might Have an Important Bearing on the Subject of a Protective Tariff.

Friends of the sugar bounty suggest a reason why the carrying of the question of the constitutionality of that bounty to the United States Supreme Court might have an effect in direct opposition to the purposes of the administration, or at least of a part of the administration. They say that if this question were deby holding that a bounty is constitutional, it would be playing directly in the hands of Mate C. H. Cleveland, who is associated populists, who favor paternalism generally, P. Munts, 1900 35th street; Jas. R. Moore,

If the Supreme Court should declare the ounty law constitutional it will, it is said, emphasize some of the contentions of the populists, and would place them in a better position to advance the cause of paternal-ism. Of course, if Secretary Carlisle should permit the question of the bounty to go to permit the question of the bodity of go to the Supreme Court it will be because he be-lieves it to be unconstitutional. But before his final decision on this question he will probably be called upon to consider not only the above objection, but also the effect of a Supreme Court decision on the question of a protective tariff. Many free trade demo-crate contend that a protective tariff is in rats contend that a protective tariff is in he nature of a bounty, and that it is unconthe nature of a bounty, and that it is unconstitutional. A Supreme Court decision on the sugar bounty might decide this question. It is said that the republicans would not fail to make use of a decision by the Supreme Court which would sustain what they have been controlled, that a protective ave always contended, that a protective tariff or any bounty is constitutional.

It Rests With the Secretary. Controller Bowler having referred the question to Secretary Carlisle with a recommendation that it be sent to the Court of Claims, has placed himself outside the ranks of those having an interest in the settlement of the question. It will be for Sec-retary Carlisle to decide whether the payment is to be made, and if he allows it to be settled in court the bounty claimants would not let the matter rest until it had reached the United States Supreme Court. This would take a very long time. In the meantime the friends of the bounty are impressing upon Secretary Carlisle their impressing upon secretary Carissic their claim that Congress has appropriated money for the payment of this bounty and authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to make the payment, the President has approved the measure with his signature, and there seems nothing to be done according to their view except for him to settle the account.

Politics in the Question.

The important political reason for the decision of the bounty question is still being urged upon the administration as a reason for its early settlement. The democratic party is conceded to have a rather weak hold upon the state of Louisiana. If the administration should fail to pay the bounty appropriated by Congress it will be important campaign material to be used next year by the republicans, and there are many politicians who believe that in the presidential election the state might go republican. Shrewd republicans are even now considering means for bettering their chances in Louisiana by having a republican Congress adopt a resolution instructing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay the sugar bounty without further delay. Then if Secretary Carlisle should order the payment the republicans of Louisiana will make the most of the resolution adopted by a republican Congress. This resolution would be quoted to show that the republican party is deeply interested in the welf-day and the state of Louisian and 17th streets; Cans. F. Hale, 719 hold upon the state of Louisiana. If the lican party is deeply interested in the wel-fare of the sugar growers and it is thought ald tend much to strengthen the republi-

It now remains for Congress to provide legislation, if the original aim for which the commission was created is to be carried out.

POLITICAL GOSSIP IN OHIO

Two Republican Senators for the First . Time in Years.

Major McKinley to Resume His Lav Practice-Some Fanciful Reports Denied.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star. COLUMBUS, Ohio, November 25, 1895. As the most important result of the recent election in Ohio ex-Governor Foraker will be elected to the Senate, taking his seat March 4, 1897. Then for the first time since the days of Ben. Wade will the Ohio republicans hold both the seats in the Senate belonging to the state. There is not the shadow of doubt about Mr. Foraker's election. He was nominated by the last state convention at the same time the state ticket was put in nomination, and the republican members of the legislature-elect have since their election unanimously expressed their hoice for him. The serious illness of Senator Sherman and his advanced age have led to some specula-tion in the last week as to who would probably succeed him.

Undoubtedly it would be McKinley. The governor will retire from office on the second Monday in January, and will once more become a private citizen. He will return to his old home at Canton and occupy, it is said, the little house in which he and Mrs. McKirley began housekeeping immediately after their marriage, twenty-five years ago. after their marriage, twenty-five years ago.

after their marriage, twenty-five years ago. He will resume the practice of law, nominally, though looking after his presidential nomination interests will undoubtedly engage the most of his time.

It is undoubtedly true that all of ex-Governor Campbell's campaign expenses were paid by the state committee, and Senator Brice was the state committee's chief source of revenue. The story that ex-Governor Campbell was paid a fabulous salary for his time and work as guberex-Governor Campbell was paid a fabulous salary for his time and work as gubernatorial candidate by Senator Brice should be taken with considerable doubt. There was an opportunity in the campaign for the ex-governor, it should be remembered, and had he been elected or come anywhere near it, he would have become a formidable candidate for the democratic nomination. candidate for the democratic nomination of course, that nomination does not seem to be very desirable just now, but looked at from the other side of the fall elections it seemed desirable enough to work for. Though the story about Senator Brice traveling over the state in his private car gathering facts from station agents as to gathering facts from station agents as to political conditions in the state is rather fanciful, he had found out in various ways fanciful, he had found out in various ways three weeks before the election that the case was hopeless. He even anticipated that the republicans would carry the state by a plurality exceeding 75,000.

Indeed, he and Governor McKinley seem to have reached the conclusion, though few republicans to make the governor were claiming more that man plurality for their party. Governor McKinley voted at his home in Canton in the forence of election day, and on the way down to Columbus made the prediction that the republican plurality would not be less than 00,000. He said there seemed to be a sullen disposition manifested by the voters, which he thought meant a storm, and he could not believe it portended disaster to his party. could not believe it portended disaster to his party.

The capital city is much disturbed by the announcement that Governor-elect Bushnell will not remove to this city during his administration. He has a palatial residence in Springfield, and as the distance from that city to the capital is short he is seriously considering a plan to continue his residence there. Not since the forties have the Ohio governors lived away from the capital, and the proposition carries the people back to the days of Governor Jeremiah Morrow, who continued to live upon his farm in Warren county during his term of office, coming to Columbus once a menth to transact official business. It is related that when the Duke of Saxe-Weimar, who was then traveling in America, called upon was then traveling in America, called upon Governor Morrow he found him busy rolling logs in a clearing on his farm

SURGERY WITHOUT PAIN.

Important Operations Done While the Patient is Fully Conscious. From the Philadelphia Record. The meeting of the Philadelphia County Medical Society last evening was rendered particularly interesting on account of the resentation of a paper by Dr. T. Parvin, on the new method of abolishing the pain of surgical operations without the necessity of employing ether or chloroform. This is the system suggested and practiced by the wellknown German surgeon, Schleich, who, by its use, has been able to perform practically all of the minor and many of the major operations of surgery without the slightest pain to the patient and without depriving him in any other way of his consciousness.

By the method of Schleich there are pre pared three solutions of common salt, in which are dissolved different quantities of muriate of cocaine and morphia. The part to be operated upon is thoroughly cleansed with an antiseptic solution and the surface brought to a low temperature by a spray of chloride of ethyl. Into this area of the skin, which, by the action of the spray, has been deprived of all sensation, the salt solution ontaining the cocaine and morphine is in containing the cocaine and morphine is injected by means of a special hypodermic syringe, numerous punctures being made in all directions. This renders the deeper structures insensible to the surgeon's knife, and for a period of from twenty minutes to half an hour the patient is not conscious, so far as actual pain is concerned, of extensive cutting and sewing far as actual pain is concerned, of extensive cutting and sewing.

The new method differs in an important degree from the ordinary employment of hypodermic injections of cocaine. The strength of the drug which has been used in the past is about one part in each twenty-five parts of the solution, while in the Schleich method there is often employed, a strength of only 1 there is often employed a strength of only 1 in 10,000. In the former, however, only a few drops of the solution are employed, while in the latter the tissues surrounding the part to be operated upon are thoroughly infiltrated with solution. With the small quantity of the cocaine employed by Dr. Schleich, it is apparent that something more than cocaine is responsible for the local anaesthesia so perfectly obtained. In the opinion of Drs. Keen, Ashhurst and Morten, who discussed the merits of the new system, the infiltration of the tissues with the solution and the distension and consequent pressure upon the small nerves were responsible in a large measure for the absence of pain when the incision by the knife is made.

To indicate the manner of employing the method of Schleich, and to show the entire absence of pain, one of the surgeons had the there is often employed a strength of only I method of Schleich, and to show the entire absence of pain, one of the surgeons had the solution inserted beneath the skin of the arm and an incision an inch long made and sewed up before the society last evening. In the discussion it was generally concedd, both from the results achieved by the German surgeon and the experiments made a number of cases in this city, that a de cided advance had been made in the field of anaesthetics, and that for a large number of operations the infiltration method would entirely supersede the general anaesthesia by ether and chloroform.

An Improvement on His Scheme. From the Chicago Post.

"That," he explained, as he saw his wife look inquiringly at the little package he had brought home, "is only some phosphorus," "Phosphorus!" she exclaimed. "Yes. You doubtless remember the kind of a time I had when I came home last night." "I do," she replied with emphasis, "but I never knew that phosphorus was good for-"

"Mrs. Growler," he interrupted, "we will dispense with your remarks on that subject I know the unjust insinuation you were about to make. As usual, the children left their little play-chairs in the hall, and I fell over them. It is not the first time that this over them. It is not the first time that this has happened, but it will be the last. I propose to cover them with phosphorus, so that I can see them when I come in at night."

"I think, John," said Mrs. Growler with an air of conviction, "that you would not see them some nights if they had electric lights on them. However, if you're bound to try it, put some on the keyhole, too."

Fatherly Advice. From the New York Weekly.

Daughter-"This plane is really my very wn, isn't it, pa? Pa-"Yes, my dear."

Daughter—"And when I marry I can take it with me, can 1?"
Pa—"Certainly, my child, but don't tell any one. It might spoil your chances."

AFFAİRS IN GEORGETOWN.

To Enforce the Law Against Reckless Driving.

The constant jeopardy in which the live of the people stand through the reckless-ness of careless drivers has instigated a special watch among the police with a view of preventing, as much as possible, and punishing these guilty of violation of this law. Yesterday Oscar Lee was taken in. He is colored, and it is alleged that he was strongly intoxicated. He violated two branches of the law-that of turning a corner with rapidity unwarrantable, and that ner with rapidity unwarrantable, and that of reckless driving on the town's highways. When Lee was called to halt by Officer Passan, the policeman was told he would be ridden over if he didn't get out of the way. Lee's arrest followed. There is a special cry going up from the citizens for the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits, and particularly of the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits, and particularly of the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits, and particularly of the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits, and particularly of the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits, and particularly of the suppression of careless and reckless driving within the city limits. larly on the crowded streets. There have been so many life-destroying accidents and serious injuries of late received that the people are rising against the danger, and insisting on the enforcement of the law against it to the letter.

Badly Cut. San Francisco Mannarice, an Italian, careless of the laws of decency, was ar-rested last night. When caught hold of the fellow had a stone hammer in his hand, which he attempted to use on the officer His upraised hand was caught by Officer Trussell. The Italian is a powerful man, and the struggle that followed was violent. The prisoner was finally gotten to the sta

The prisoner was finally gotten to the station.

The man had a serrated cut on his head that looked as if it had been inflicted with a strong-handled saw blade. A small artery had been severed, and blood flowed copiously. The man said he had received it through a fall against the edge of a curbitons. The officers did not strike him at the stone. The officers did not strike him at all in the struggle attending his arrest. Dr. A. B. Shekells dressed the man's wounds and administered other surgical attention. He Was Wanted. Wm. Levi, alias Mickins, was seen trying in various places to dispose of a pair of women's shoes yesterday and he was taken n on suspicion of having come by them improperly. When brought to the station it was found that the fellow was wanted there for assault and battery, a warrant having been already issued. He was ac-cordingly held on both charges. Notes.

Fifty-two new letter and package boxes with new fastenings have been placed in town in the old locations. The new lock is the invention of a policeman. Mr. Thomas Bateman, an old citizen, and Pays four per cent interest one much respected, died yesterday after-noon at his home, on O street near 35th.

Grants of Arid Lands. In his annual report, it is said, Secretary

Smith will recommend to Congress that the arid lands of the far west be granted to the states in which they lie. In this way the title to the lands will pass at once, and the states will be made responsible for the im-provement of these desert wastes by irrigation. It is believed that by this method these lands would be much sooner redeemer from their present condition than if they re main in pessession of the United States. Kilmartin on the street, was brought into court in Cincinnati, O., yesterday from the hospital on a cot to be tried as to his in-
